Timothy D. Howe. This malignant and small pattern of a senator was a bitter assailant of President LINCOLN near the close of his first term. cian belongs to the order of mousing owls. His speech against Mr. HAYES was exactly what his ill-nature and narrow mind rendered it necessary he should make. And it has fallen heavily. From Washington all information leads to the conclusion that it was a mistike and failure-just what might have been expected of a vindictive exploit from a man who, like Howe, is not fit for anything in the line of good and humanity. Of him we care nothing; but he is a representative man of a community of evil-minded and malicious fanatics and political bigots, and we are glad that he has met with so little respect and such decided

Mr. Hows advised the President to resign and turn coachman; a brutal manifestation not quite equalled by the rudeness of a suggestion of a malignant mind here which called upon Governor Holliday to depart from the government mansion for having differed from the considerate author could be no assumption more clearly asiof the suggestion. Poor Howe only brought | nine. upon himself a deserved contempt for emulating the example set him, we regret to say, in Virginia.

There will be no reply to Howe. The anti-HAYES Republicans wait for a reply to Howe, and that will not be made. Neither the HAYES Republicans nor the Democrats propose to say anything. A sagacious Washington letter-writer says:

"Mr. Howe's speech has had one good effect. It is tolerably evident from the manner in which it has been discussed today that there is a general disapproval of the attempt made by Mr. Howe to stir up the southern question and revive sectional suspicion and dislike. Future attacks on the President are likely to leave this southern question alone."

Admirable! Rumors ascribe to Howe some malice for failures of the President to appoint his pecu-Har friends to office. He was himself even an aspirant for the vacancy in the Supreme Court filled by the appointment of HARLAN. These things have embittered that peculiar nature of his which cannot admire things that are proper and lovely because kind and Bigotry, fanaticism, and hate are not peculiarities of young communities, which are generally inclined to be generous. Men would wonder how such a narrow-minded bigot as Howe came from Wisconsin. The how he came is one thing, but Wisconsin is innocent of his birth. That sin is laid at the door of the State of Maine, who has sins enough. Howe was born at Livermore, Me., February 24, 1816.

FAYETTE MCMULLIN, then, is entitled to the place of congressman. He has done more than any other man to demoralize Southwest Virginia and teach the people there that it is right to defraud the creditors of the State. For years he has fought the bondholders, and played the demagogue. He is no new convert. By all means let McMullin be elected.

Almost every day we receive requests to send our paper as an exchange to some journal which we do not need. We have already an immense exchange list. We cannot even glance at all of our exchanges. It costs us several dollars annually to send out a single copy of our daily. Surely we ought not to be expected to do this for nothing: and yet this is exactly what many of the requests we allude to mean, seeing that they come either from places whence we already have exchanges enough or from places which could not supply us with an item of news once a year. We intend to cut off something less than a hundred of our present exchanges before long.

MARCH 27, 1878. The building called in later times the Danville Warehouse was sold at auction yesterday to Colonel James M. Neal for eighty-one dollars, cash. It is to be taken down and removed within fifteen days. Years ago this was the only warehouse in Danville for the sale of leaf tobacco, and it was then called Neal's Warehouse, and was "run" by Colonel T. D. Neal, now of Richmond. After other warehouses were built this was called Neal's Old Warehouse. It next was given the name of the Danville Warehouse; next it was used as a liverystable; and latterly it has been unoccupied There is much of local history connected with this old building. For years it was used for the drill of military companies, for a general auction- and commission-house, and or all public meetings at which people would like to be under shelter and at the same time as free as if out of doors. A CARD.—Having purchased the WHIG BUILDING and removed our OFFICE and WAREROOM to No. 102 Governor street, adjoining the Whig counting-room, we have greater facilities than ever for furnishing all orders for TYPE and PRINTING MATERIAL at the lowest market prices. Although some evil-disposed persons have circulated the report that we are interested in a city printing-office, with the cylicat intention of injuring our business with the other printingers, we assert that we have not now, nor never had, any interest in any office in the city, and pronounce the roport false in every particular.

BOR MORE THAN TEN YEARS WE have been engaged in the manufacture of PA-PER BOXES, and have ended and burden soil hundreds of meu, women, boys, and girls, and have always paid them good wages, thereby enabling them to live in respectability and confort. We are now largely engaged in this undertaking, and with skilful workmen and improved machinery can confidently invite all persons in want of PAPER BOXES to give us a call, assuring them that we can any interest in any office in the city, and pronounce the roport false in every particular.
